It may be that the $2 bonus given by the officers of the Third Infantry for new the officers of the Third Infantry for new recruits stimulated the zeal of the men on the recruiting detail, or it may have been pride in their organization, or both. However, their efforts resulted in sixteen young men being signed up before 3 o'clock in the afternoon. There were several others who wanted to enlist, but who had to be rejected, being under age. Seven of the recruits were colored and assigned to the First Separate Battalion; five went to the Field Artillery, and the remainder to the Third Infantry.

Men of the detail made strenuous efforts to get a bright young Filibino to enlist. He had served in the Ninth Regular Infantry, but said that he had enough "soldating" and did not care to give up his "happy home" with a doctor at Chevy Chase for the hardships of the service along the Mexican border.

Eleven men were examined and actually enlisted at Camp Orderay yesterday. Battery B got four recruits, the First Separate Battalion received six, and the Third Infantry received one.

Lecturer Declares Excessive Use of Meat Increases Domestic Infelicity.

and Park foad.

"Bad cooking is frequently responsible for the irritability and the family jars which lead to the divorce courts and separate those whom God has joined together," said Dr. Kress. "What we are morally and spiritually, depends much upon what we eat. A sour stomach and a sweet amiable disposition are seldom associated.

"The free use of meats also has much to do with the increase in divorce. Meat has concealed within its fibres products that are irritating to joints and muscles. When a person has gout or rheumatism he is advised by his physician to give up meat. The same irritants which in-flame the joints, inflame the passions and irritate the brain and nerve cells. Meat eating tends to make men gross."
